Passenger Train Leaps Track and Hits a House

ACCIDENT ON BIG FOUR LINE NEAR CINCINNATI, O.

MRS. ROSE EARHARDT, 76, IN KITCHEN OF HOME, KILLED, BURIED UNDER DEBRIS

HUSBAND, NEAR HER, INJURED;
OTHERS INJURED ARE 4
PASSENGERS

Cincinnati, O., May 16.—(U.P.)—One woman was killed and five persons were injured today when a speeding Big Four passenger train leaped the tracks and crashed into a house at Lakeland, 11 miles from here.

The woman, Mrs. Rose Earhardt, 76, was seated in the kitchen of her home with her husband, Frank 77, when the engine tore through the side of the dwelling and overturned, burying her beneath the wreckage.

Officials started an immediate investigation. They said that they believed boy gangsters were responsible for placing a spike, which derailed the train, on the tracks, and discounted early reports of a sabotage plot.

The Big Four was traveling from Cincinnati to Cleveland at a speed of about 60 miles an hour, they said, when the locomotive struck a large spike placed on one of the rails.

Engineer Lee jammed on the brakes and attempted to reduce the speed and prevent the engine from leaving the tracks. The massive engine skidded along for about 100 feet before it was thrown from the rails.

Members of the crew and passengers worked frantically to remove Mrs. Earhardt from beneath the debris. She was rushed by automobile to the general hospital here, where she died a short time later.

The injured are: Frank Earhardt, fractured leg and severe lacerations; Leon Leonard, 27; Newport, Ky., news agent on the train; Clarence Lee, 51, Columbus, O., engineer; Fred Heard, 36, Cincinnati, fireman; and James Salray, 39, baggage master.

TWO OF KIRKLAND'S PALS TO TESTIFY

Valparaiso, Ind., May 16.—(U.P.)—Two of the four youths accused with Virgil Kirkland, Gary athlete, of murdering Arlene Draves during an all-night drinking party last November, will testify for the state Monday in Kirkland's retrial. Prosecutor John Underwood said today.

The sudden turn in events was revealed after Kirkland's trial adjourned over the week end with additional testimony regarding Arlene's mistreatment while in a coma added to the records.

Henry Shirk and Paul Barton want to tell the truth about the party without hope of leniency," Underwood said in admitting they had been brought from Crown Point to Valparaiso to be state witnesses.

Nobile Rescuer Fatally Injured in Plane Crash

Stockholm, May 16.—(U.P.)—Sergeant A. Svensson, member of the Swedish air expedition which went to the relief of Gen. Umberto Nobile and the crew of the dirigible Italia, was fatally injured today in an airplane crash at Vesteras, 60 miles northwest of Stockholm. Two corporals were killed outright in the crash.

A posse was organized to pursue them and descriptions were broadcast over a radio station.

Sunken Treasure Ship Carrying $5,000,000 Located Off Golden Gate

San Francisco, May 16.—(U.P.)—The steamship Rio de Janeiro which went down off the Golden Gate in 1901 with a load of bullion valued at $5,000,000 has been located, a formal notice posted with Recorded Edmund Gotchaux said today.

San Francisco—Capt. Robert Dollar, dean of Pacific coast shipping men, was reported slightly weaker at his San Rafael home today, but with normal pulse and respiration.

SUICIDE FRUSTRATED AS 16 COLLEGE MEN RESUSCITATE MAN

Chicopee, Mass., May 16.—(U.P.)—Contemplating suicide, Michael Lasek leaped from a bridge into the Connecticut river.

He struck the water just as 16 Springfield college students passed under the bridge while an instructor lectured on lifesaving methods. Lasek was hauled out and the students given a realistic demonstration of resuscitation procedure.

Police said he was unemployed and intoxicated.

7 YOUTHS SAVED FROM MINE CAVEIN, TRAPPED 10 HOURS

MAIN ENTRANCE NEAR CLEAR-FIELD, PA., BLOCKED BY FALL OF SLATE

RESCUE WORKERS CUT SHAFT,
AND PULL YOUTHS TO SAFE-
TY WITH ROPES

Clearfield, Pa., May 16.—(U.P.)—Seven youths were rescued today from a mine in which they had been trapped by a cavein for 10 hours.

The main entrance was blocked by a fall of slate. Rescue workers cut a shaft from the top of a hill overlooking the mine and pulled the youths to safety with ropes.

Yesterday afternoon, George Duckett, 17, and Jesse Duckett, 26, sons of the owner of the mine, were digging coal when five others entered the mine and asked them to play baseball.

The seven started for the entrance in a mine car. Near the mine's surface, the car jumped the track and struck a prop which supported the roof of the mine. The roof collapsed, and slate began to pile up at the mine entrance.

Although able to communicate with the trapped youths, rescuers did not attempt to clear away the debris, fearing another cavein.

At the top of the hill a hole 25 feet deep had been caused by the slate fall. Workers, lowered on ropes, extended the hole until they reached the blocked entrance of the mine, half way down the hillside.

Ropes were lowered after the debris was cleared and the youths were pulled to safety, uninjured.

Those trapped, beside the Duckett brothers were: John Duckett, 26, their cousin; Ed Barry, Daly Anderson, 14, Orville Aughenbaugh, 16, and Terence O'Donnell, 20.

BILL DYING FROM OVERDOSE OF HUMOR

Lansing, Mich., May 16.—(U.P.)—State Rep. John Dykstra's famous bill forbidding Michigan wives to work while their husbands are also employed, was near death today from an overdose of humor.

Rep. Dykstra offered yesterday to take the bill into the senate in a baby buggy if the house would approve it. The house "took him up."

So Rep. Dykstra wheeled a baby buggy down the aisle of the senate chamber while senators hummed lullabies in senatorial bass. On the blue-and-white blankets reposed a copy of the bill.

But Lieut. Gov. Luren D. Dickinson failed to see the joke. He ordered Dykstra and the baby buggy from the senate rostrum and demanded that the house present the bill properly.

2 BANK ROBBERY SUSPECTS TAKEN

Kenosha, Wis., May 16.—(U.P.)—Two men believed to have taken part in the Meinhardt bank robbery at Burlington yesterday were under arrest here today, one of them with serious bullet wounds in his neck and chest.

Kenosha county officials said they expected to arrest a third man today. The wounded captive gave his name as Frank Kamin, 27, Silver Lake, and the other suspect said he was Reinhold Fleuker, 31, Burlington.

They were captured in a cottage at Twin Lakes three hours after the bank was robbed of a sum estimated between $5,000 and $10,000.

Seven Men Injured as Gas Bunker in Plant Explodes

Weirton, W. Va., May 16.—(U.P.)—Seven men were injured, one probably fatally, when a gas bunker exploded in the Weirton Steel company plant here this afternoon.

D. L. Scherthy, 45, was expected to die from body burns but the condition of his companions was thought to be not serious.

The cause of the explosion was not determined.

Weird 'Suicide Cult' May Have Claimed Lives of 24 of its Members in Long Island Town

DEATH OF INVALID, EDWARD SCHWARTZ, CAUSES PROBE

SPINSTER SISTER IS CHARGED WITH MURDER IN CON-NECTION WITH DEATH

SHE DENIES KILLING, SAYS HER BROTHER TOOK OWN LIFE AS MEMBER SUICIDE CLUB

Mineola, L. I., May 16.—(U.P.)—Residents of Amityville, a quiet Long Island town near here, were startled today to learn of a weird "suicide cult" which already may have claimed the lives of 24 of its original 50 members.

The existence of such a "club" came to light, authorities said, with the arrest of a 57-year-old spinster, Louise Schwarz, who is under indictment on a second degree murder charge in connection with the death of her invalid brother, Edward, 55.

She denied the killing and told police her brother took his own life as a member of the suicide club. Schwarz was found last Wednesday, freshly shaven and dressed in his best clothes, seated in an easy chair dead. His ankles were crossed and a revolver lay in his lap, closely clutched in his right hand. He had two wounds in his head.

The coroner pointed out that one of the shots destroyed his motor centers and it would have been impossible for him to have fired the second shot which caused his death. The coroner also said that as Schwarz was a helpless invalid, it would have been impossible for him to dress himself.

Miss Schwarz was arrested. Her brother, she said, had suffered almost unbearably for the past 20 years and they had agreed that it was best for him to end it all.

This agreement came, she said, after a meeting of the "suicide club" at her home, when members offered prayers for relief of his suffering to no avail. The "cult," originally composed of 50 aged and suffering members, but with only 28 remaining, had an unwritten law, she said, whereby it was understood that if the weekly prayers for some member failed the victim would end his life.

It was under this understanding that the brother and sister decided it was best for him to end his life, she said. She helped him put on his best clothes, shaved him and placed him in the easy chair "so that he would look his best in death."

She then got the revolver and handed it to him, she said, leaving the house shortly thereafter, not to return until five hours later.

Miss Schwarz went on to name nearly a dozen late residents of Suffolk county who, as members of the club, had ended their lives, according to officials. Police were attempting to learn the names of other members to ascertain whether the missing 24

Gen. Butler Says 'Damn' in Front of Microphone But Was Not 'On the Air'

Chicago, May 16.—(U.P.)—Major General Smedley D. Butler stood in front of a microphone last night, said "damn" in his most forcible manner, then waited for somebody to "take him off the air" as happened not long ago in the east when he swore during a radio broadcast.

But he was not "shut off the air" this time because he wasn't on it. The microphone, he learned, was just to amplify his remarks to a large meeting of Chicago Legionnaires. He admitted he was disappointed.

Avoiding reference to all subjects which recently have caused him trouble, the general spoke in typical Butler manner of his experiences and of newspaper men.

"Damn it," he said, "the newspaper men are my best friends. They get me into more damn jams, but then they always get me out again."

AS MUCH AS 20-DEGREE JUMP
IN ONE HOUR IN SOME AREAS

St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—(U.P.)—A May heat wave which had driven the temperature to a high mark of 103 degrees at Aberdeen, S. D., brought other new heat records to Minnesota and other sections of the northwest today.

Farm crops were benefitted by the heat, it was reported. Many cases of prostration were reported, however, as the mercury went upward, as much as 20 degrees in one hour in some areas.

Bathing beaches were populated for the first time in the Twin Cities and highways were crowded with city dwellers seeking relief.

Minneapolis had a high reading of 91.2 degrees yesterday and St. Paul had 87. At Fargo, N. D., the temperature reached 94 above and Bismarck had 86. Duluth, Minn., and Eau Claire, Wis., each had 88. Brainerd had 93.

Cloudy weather brought relief to most of the northwest last night and light showers were reported early today. The sun was out an hour after the rain, however, and the mercury was rising again.

of the original 50 had met death at their own hands.

WISCRACKING HOSTESS, 2 PILOTS SAVE PASSENGERS

WING OF EASTERN AIR TRANS-
PORT PLANE BURSTS
INTO FLAMES

PANIC IS AVERTED, PLANE MAN-
EUVERED, ALL ABOARD
LANDED SAFELY

New York, N. Y., May 16.—(U.P.)—A "wisecracking" hostess and two level-headed pilots were credited today with saving the lives of 17 passengers when the wing of an Eastern Air Transport plane burst into flames near Aberdeen, Md.

The plane, enroute from Richmond to New York, was about 15 minutes out of Washington and flying at an altitude of 1,500 feet when Miss Elisabeth Westwood, the hostess, noticed the flames from the smoking compartment.

Miss Westwood walked to the front of the large Curtis Condor plane and notified the pilot, A. C. Kondat. She then returned to the passenger compartment and joked with the passengers to avert a panic while G. J. McDonald, co-pilot, fought the blaze with a fire extinguisher.

Assuring the passengers in the cabin which was fast filling with smoke, that they would be landed safely, Kondat drove the large craft on for five miles, maneuvering it so that the flames were away from the wing.

Kondat then set the craft down in a small field near Edgewood arsenal, where the Fort Hoyle fire department was waiting to extinguish the flames. Firemen had noticed smoke pouring from the craft and had arrived at the field by the time Kondat landed. Part of the wing structure was ripped away and the blaze quickly extinguished.

Eleven passengers boarded a train for New York, while the seven others took the next Eastern Air Transport for New York.

J. E. Hoover, of the department of justice, one of the passengers, highly praised the two pilots and the girl hostess, whose coolness, he said, probably averted a major catastrophe.

MAN USED CAPONE NAME AS AN ALIAS

Deadwood, S. D., May 16.—(U.P.)—"Capone, charged with intoxication. Guilty or not guilty?" the bailiff sang out in police court today.

A dark, heavy set man of Sicilian appearance stepped up before Judge C. E. McHugh, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

But it wasn't "Scarface" Al Capone or any of his relatives. Questioning by Judge McHugh revealed the defendant's name is Frank Aardman and Capone was an alias.

$5 Won in Crossword Puzzle Contest May Bar Deportation

San Francisco, May 16.—(U.P.)—Five dollars won in a crossword puzzle contest may save Thorwald Rasmussen, who is serving 15 years at Folsom for burglary, from being deported to Denmark.

Rasmussen, jobless and without other funds, used the prize money today to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. His petition, self written, stated that he arrived in this country in 1911.

The immigration laws provide that a person cannot be deported for a crime committed five years after arrival.

RUTH NICHOLS TO START ATLANTIC FLIGHT IN JUNE

HOPES TO LEAVE FROM HARBOR
GRACE, NEW FOUND-
LAND

TO WING HER WAY TO EUROPE
IN 13 HOURS, ANTI-CIPATED

New York, May 16.—(U.P.)—One night before the end of June, Ruth Nichols hopes to start from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, for Europe and arrive across the Atlantic 13 hours later.

In a press discussion of her plans, she revealed she believed her chances were "98 per cent" for success in the trans-Atlantic venture. The plane she will use has just been conditioned and will attain a 200 miles an hour speed, Miss Nichols believes.

"There is no comparison between the flight I will make and that of Colonel Lindbergh," she said. "He made it non-stop and I in a faster plane and with a much more powerful motor am making many stops."

Lindbergh started from Roosevelt Field, New York, and landed at Le Bourget field outside Paris.

Miss Nichols also revealed that towards the end of her flight, when she encounters the thick cloud banks that have deterred so many trans-Atlantic flights, she may attempt to exceed her own altitude record of 28,743 feet. She will carry a special oxygen supply for this test.

Definite date for the start has not been set but she said it might be within two weeks.

Gillette Safety Razor Co. Starts $10,000,000 Suit

New York, May 16.—(U.P.)—Gillette Safety Razor Co. has brought suit against the United Cigar Stores Co. of America for $10,000,000, claimed as damages on alleged misrepresentation made by United in connection with a marketing contract between the two companies, it was learned today.

It is charged that United had induced Gillette to believe that United retail outlet was larger than it was in fact and so persuaded Gillette to enter into the contract.

RAMSEY COUNTY DISTRICT JUDGE HEARS ARGUMENTS

TAKES UNDER ADVISEMENT THE
CASE BROUGHT TO TEST
VALIDITY

ORAL PLEADING, LENGTHY
BRIEFS, NUMEROUS
CITATIONS

St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—(U.P.)—Judge Gustavus Loevinger of Ramsey county district court today heard arguments and took under advisement the case brought to test the validity of Gov. Floyd B. Olson's veto of the legislative reapportionment bill.

While Judge Loevinger could fix no definite time for rendition of his decision, after hearing arguments of counsel for nearly three hours and receiving lengthy briefs and numerous additional citations, he indicated that he would exercise all haste possible in arriving at his conclusions and handing down his decision.

W. Yale Smiley, Minneapolis, petitioner, opened the case after it had been assigned to Judge Loevinger by Judge Carlton F. McNally, sitting in chambers on the calendar, and recited briefly the allegations and contentions made in his petition asking that Mike Holm, secretary of state, be enjoined from receiving filings for nominations for congress from any subdivision of the state set up as a congressional district.

Smiley's suit is based on the allegations that the state has not been legally redistricted pursuant to act of congress following the 1930 census because the bill was vetoed by the governor and further, even if the governor's veto be invalid, the act is illegal because the congressional districts, as proposed, are not as equal in population "as practicable," nor compact and comprised of contiguous territory, as prescribed by act of congress.

Henry M. Benson, attorney general, appearing for Holm, made the opening address to the court, outlining the constitutional and statutory provisions and court decisions intended to substantiate his contention that the legislative bill, as passed, legally redistricting the state into nine instead of 10 congressional districts, the governor's veto being held to be "totally ineffective to defeat the expressed determination of the legislature."

Among the less than a score of interested spectators in the court room were two congressmen, Rep. W. A. Pittenger, Duluth, and Rep. A. H. Henderson, Red Wing, State Sen. C. N. Orr and Rep. J. J. McDonough, both of St. Paul.

SENATOR NYE THINKS GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT GOOD FOR PRESIDENCY

New York, May 16.—(U.P.)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York would make a strong presidential candidate and the west was watching him closely, Senator Gerald P. Nye, Rep., N. D., said in an interview here.

"The question of the public utilities is by far the most important issue today and I look for it to be the major question of 1932," Nye said.

"We in the west are watching with the keenest interest the St. Lawrence project, not only because the St. Lawrence is our road to the sea for transportation of our grain and other products but because of the natural resources in your state which are about to be developed and which must be developed."

He believes Roosevelt would be a much stronger candidate in the middle west than either former Governor Alfred E. Smith or Owen D. Young.

MINIATURE 'GOLD RUSH' IS ON NEAR LAS CRUCES, N. M.

Las Cruces, N. M., May 16.—(U.P.)—A miniature "gold rush" prompting people of Las Cruces to stake out claims, was caused by the reported discovery of gold on Piaccho mountain, five miles west of here.

Ed Lewis made the find and claims assays have run as high as $1,500 per ton. He also reported specimens of clay having been assayed in Denver which runs $500 per ton.

Because development has not been carried far enough, it cannot be determined how much ore may be found on the claims, Lewis said.

A number of claims have been located in the district.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE DECLINES IN APRIL

Washington, May 16.—(U.P.)—United States foreign trade showed a further decline in April, with both imports and exports less than for March and far below comparable figures for April last year.

Exports for April this year totalled $217,000,000 compared with $331,732,000 for April last year. Imports were $157,000,000, compared with $307,824,000 for April, 1930.

This radio photo, which was telephotoed from New York to Chicago over A. T. & T. wires, shows smoldering ruins of Church of Jesus in Madrid, Spain, following fire set by anti-clericals.

Farm crops were benefitted by the heat, it was reported. Many cases of prostration were reported, however, as the mercury went upward, as much as 20 degrees in one hour in some areas.

Bathing beaches were popular for the first time in the Twin Cities and highways were crowded with city dwellers seeking relief.

Minneapolis had a high reading of 91.2 degrees yesterday and St. Paul had 87. At Fargo, N. D., the temperature reached 94 above and Bismarck had 86. Duluth, Minn., and Eau Claire, Wis., each had 88. Brainerd had 93.

Cloudy weather brought relief to most of the northwest last night and light showers were reported early today. The sun was out an hour after the rain, however, and the mercury was rising again.

Of the original 50 had met death at their own hands.

WISCRACKING HOSTESS, 2 PILOTS SAVE PASSENGERS

WING OF EASTERN AIR TRANS-
PORT PLANE BURSTS
INTO FLAMES

PANIC IS AVERTED, PLANE MAN-
EUVERED, ALL ABOARD
LANDED SAFELY

New York, N. Y., May 16.—(U.P.)—A "wisecracking" hostess and two level-headed pilots were credited today with saving the lives of 17 passengers when the wing of an Eastern Air Transport plane burst into flames near Aberdeen, Md.

The plane, enroute from Richmond to New York, was about 15 minutes out of Washington and flying at an altitude of 1,500 feet when Miss Elisabeth Westwood, the hostess, noticed the flames from the smoking compartment.

Miss Westwood walked to the front of the large Curtis Condor plane and notified the pilot, A. C. Kondat. She then returned to the passenger compartment and joked with the passengers to avert a panic while G. J. McDonald, co-pilot, fought the blaze with a fire extinguisher.

Assuring the passengers in the cabin which was fast filling with smoke, that they would be landed safely, Kondat drove the large craft on for five miles, maneuvering it so that the flames were away from the wing.

Kondat then set the craft down in a small field near Edgewood arsenal, where the Fort Hoyle fire department was waiting to extinguish the flames. Firemen had noticed smoke pouring from the craft and had arrived at the field by the time Kondat landed. Part of the wing structure was ripped away and the blaze quickly extinguished.

Eleven passengers boarded a train for New York, while the seven others took the next Eastern Air Transport for New York.

J. E. Hodver, of the department of justice, one of the passengers, highly praised the two pilots and the girl hostess, whose coolness, he said, probably averted a major catastrophe.

MAN USED CAPONE NAME AS AN ALIAS

Deadwood, S. D., May 16.—(U.P.)—"Capone, charged with intoxication. Guilty or not guilty?" the bailiff sang out in police court today.

A dark, heavy set man of Sicilian appearance stepped up before Judge C. E. McHugh, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

But it wasn't "Scarface" Al Capone or any of his relatives. Questioning by Judge McHugh revealed the defendant's name is Frank Aardman and Capone was an alias.

$5 Won in Crossword Puzzle Contest May Bar Deportation

San Francisco, May 16.—(U.P.)—Five dollars won in a crossword puzzle contest may save Thormwald Rasmussen, who is serving 15 years at Folsom for burglary, from being deported to Denmark.

Rasmussen, jobless and without other funds, used the prize money today to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. His petition, self written, stated that he arrived in this country in 1911.

The immigration laws provide that a person cannot be deported for a crime committed five years after arrival.

RUTH NICHOLS TO START ATLANTIC FLIGHT IN JUNE

HOPES TO LEAVE FROM HARBOR
GRACE, NEW FOUND-
LAND

TO WING HER WAY TO EUROPE
IN 13 HOURS, ANTICI-PATED

New York, May 16.—(U.P.)—One night before the end of June, Ruth Nichols hopes to start from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, for Europe and arrive across the Atlantic 13 hours later.

In a press discussion of her plans, she revealed she believed her chances were "98 per cent" for success in the trans-Atlantic venture. The plane she will use has just been conditioned and will attain a 200 miles an hour speed, Miss Nichols believes.

"There is no comparison between the flight I will make and that of Colonel Lindbergh," she said. "He made it non-stop and I in a faster plane and with a much more powerful motor am making many stops."

Lindbergh started from Roosevelt Field, New York, and landed at Le Bourget field outside Paris.

Miss Nichols also revealed that towards the end of her flight, when she encounters the thick cloud banks that have deterred so many trans-Atlantic flights, she may attempt to exceed her own altitude record of 28,743 feet. She will carry a special oxygen supply for this test.

Definite date for the start has not been set but she said it might be within two weeks.

Gillette Safety Razor Co. Starts $10,000,000 Suit

New York, May 16.—(U.P.)—Gillette Safety Razor Co. has brought suit against the United Cigar Stores Co. of America for $10,000,000, claimed as damages on alleged misrepresentation made by United in connection with a marketing contract between the two companies, it was learned today.

It is charged that United had induced Gillette to believe that United retail outlet was larger than it was in fact and so persuaded Gillette to enter into the contract.

RAMSEY COUNTY DISTRICT JUDGE HEARS ARGUMENTS

TAKES UNDER ADVISEMENT THE
CASE BROUGHT TO TEST
VALIDITY

ORAL PLEADING, LENGTHY
BRIEFS, NUMEROUS
CITATIONS

St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—(U.P.)—Judge Gustavus Loevinger of Ramsey county district court today heard arguments and took under advisement the case brought to test the validity of Gov. Floyd B. Olson's veto of the legislative reapportionment bill.

While Judge Loevinger could fix no definite time for rendition of his decision, after hearing arguments of counsel for nearly three hours and receiving lengthy briefs and numerous additional citations, he indicated that he would exercise all haste possible in arriving at his conclusions and handing down his decision.

W. Yale Smiley, Minneapolis, petitioner, opened the case after it had been assigned to Judge Loevinger by Judge Carlton F. McNally, sitting in chambers on the calendar, and recited briefly the allegations and contentions made in his petition asking that Mike Holm, secretary of state, be enjoined from receiving filings for nominations for congress from any subdivision of the state set up as a congressional district.

Smiley's suit is based on the allegations that the state has not been legally redistricted pursuant to act of congress following the 1930 census because the bill was vetoed by the governor and further, even if the governor's veto be invalid, the act is illegal because the congressional districts, as proposed, are not as equal in population "as practicable," nor compact and comprised of contiguous territory, as prescribed by act of congress.

Henry M. Benson, attorney general, appearing for Holm, made the opening address to the court, outlining the constitutional and statutory provisions and court decisions intended to substantiate his contention that the legislative bill, as passed, legally redistricting the state into nine instead of 10 congressional districts, the governor's veto being held to be "totally ineffective to defeat the expressed determination of the legislature."

Among the less than a score of interested spectators in the court room were two congressmen, Rep. W. A. Pittenger, Duluth, and Rep. A. H. Henderson, Red Wing, State Sen. C. N. Orr and Rep. J. J. McDonough, both of St. Paul.

SENATOR NYE THINKS GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT GOOD FOR PRESIDENCY

New York, May 16.—(U.P.)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York would make a strong presidential candidate and the west is watching him closely, Senator Gerald P. Nye, Rep. N. D., said in an interview here.

"The question of the public utilities is by far the most important issue today and I look for it to be the major question of 1932," Nye said.

"We in the west are watching with the keenest interest the St. Lawrence project, not only because the St. Lawrence is our road to the sea for transportation of our grain and other products but because of the natural resources in your state which are about to be developed and which must be developed."

He believes Roosevelt would be a much stronger candidate in the middle west than either former Governor Alfred E. Smith or Owen D. Young.

MINIATURE 'GOLD RUSH' IS ON NEAR LAS CRUCES, N. M.

Las Cruces, N. M., May 16.—(U.P.)—A miniature "gold rush" prompting people of Las Cruces to stake out claims, was caused by the reported discovery of gold on Pichacho mountain, five miles west of here.

Ed Lewis made the find and claims assays have run as high as $1,500 per ton. He also reported specimens of clay having been assayed in Denver which runs $500 per ton.

Because development has not been carried far enough, it cannot be determined how much ore may be found on the claims, Lewis said.

A number of claims have been located in the district.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE DECLINES IN APRIL

Washington, May 16.—(U.P.)—United States foreign trade showed a further decline in April, with both imports and exports less than for March and far below comparable figures for April last year.

Exports for April this year totalled $217,000,000 compared with $331,732,000 for April last year. Imports were $187,000,000, compared with $307,824,000 for April, 1930.

Questions:

1. Why does a chameleon change color?
2. What makes thunder?
3. Is there really a man in the moon?
4. What are shooting stars, really?

Answers:

1. The inner layer of the chameleon's skin is lined with a series of tiny pigment or color cells. When these expand or grow larger, and contract or grow smaller, the chameleon changes color. For instance, when the yellowish-green cells expand the chameleon turns orange, and if the reddish cells contract the chameleon becomes brown or black.

2. Did you ever stuff your feet on a thick rug, then touch something metal with the tips of your fingers and watch the tiny spark it makes and hear the little "snap"? Thunder is just a very large "snap" like that, after an electrical flash.

3. Perhaps there is, and perhaps there isn't. Some people even say the moon isn't made of green cheese, but that the little holes and bumps we see on its surface are really empty lakes and mountains and craters.

4. Shooting stars, or meteors, are small heavenly bodies that the earth meets on its path around the sun. When they strike our atmosphere, they fall through it so swiftly that they become heated by the friction of the air and burn up in a flash of fire even before they reach the earth.

IMPROVEMENTS IN STOCK MARKET

SHOW UP IN LATE TRADING YESTERDAY AND CONTINUING TODAY

New York, May 16.—Improvement that developed in yesterday's late trading continued on the stock market today, prices in most sections moving up.

Steel common reflected absence of important selling, rising to around the 194 level after reopening, fractionally lower at 102 3/4. Similar comebacks took place in other leaders.

Activity, however, continued on a reduced scale and most of the buying represented week-end short covering following the recent sweeping decline. Price changes for the most part were only fractional and reflected the absence of speculative participation.

Absence of important selling in the railroad department and resumption of polo activity featured the early trading. Alaska Juneau was the outstanding feature, rising more than a point to another record high.

BRAINERD
25 Years Ago

May 16, 1906
Cuyler Adams, discoverer of the Cuyuna range, arrived at his summer home in Deerwood a few days ago after a long journey through South and Central America. While there he crossed the mountains on mules through the snows from Buenos Ayres to Valparaiso and Santiago, then coming up the Pacific coast by steamer to Colon and to the states.

During the storm yesterday, lightning struck the residence of G. A. Lively at Sylvan and caused considerable damage, setting the building on fire and scattering the furniture about. A bed on which one of the children was asleep was in the path of the lightning and the occupant was thrown out but not seriously injured.

J. F. Burns went to St. Paul today to consult a specialist. He had one of his eyes burned with a cinder last night and the doctors at the sanitarium advised that course.

The Misses Dorothy Lyddon, Halie King, Valentine Hays, Lulu Fuller and Alma Schulz went to Aitkin yesterday afternoon to enter the contest. They were chaperoned by Mrs. S. S. King. The prizes were won by Aitkin girls.

C. N. and F. S. Parker returned from the Twin Cities today. F. S. was only absent for a short time while his father has been away most of the winter. He has traveled extensively in the east during the few months he was away.

Henry Poppenberg who recently came here to work in the shops left today for Cheyenne where he has been offered the position of night foreman in the Northern Pacific roundhouse.

Questions:

1. Why does a chameleon change color?
2. What makes thunder?
3. Is there really a man in the moon?
4. What are shooting stars, really?

Answers:

1. The inner layer of the chameleon's skin is lined with a series of tiny pigment or color cells. When these expand or grow larger, and contract or grow smaller, the chameleon changes color. For instance, when the yellowish-green cells expand the chameleon turns orange, and if the reddish cells contract the chameleon becomes brown or black.

Return From California Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Smith and family, 823 Fifth avenue Northeast, returned yesterday afternoon from a trip to California. They made the trip through Omaha and Ogden. While there they visited at Sacramento at the home of Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. C. Nelson and his sister Miss Bertha Nelson, and at Orville, Calif., at the home of his brother Earl. They also visited at San Francisco and vicinity. They reported the temperature at Sacramento very warm, it being over 90 degrees above most of the time.

IMPROVEMENTS
IN STOCK MARKET

SHOW UP IN LATE TRADING YESTERDAY AND CONTINUING TODAY

New York, May 16.—Improvement that developed in yesterday's late trading continued on the stock market today, prices in most sections moving up.

Steel common reflected absence of important selling, rising to around the 104 level after reopening fractionally lower at 102 3/4. Similar comebacks took place in other leaders.

Activity, however, continued on a reduced scale and most of the buying represented the recent sweeping decline. Price changes for the most part were only fractional and reflected the absence of speculative participation.

Absence of important selling in the railroad department and resumption of polo activity featured the early trading. Alaska Juneau was the outstanding feature, rising more than a point to another record high.

BIBLE SCHOOL CONTEST

Third Sunday Emphasizes Attendance, and New Members at First Baptist Church

Tomorrow will be the third Sunday of the Bible school contest at the First Baptist church. The "On Time" contest conducted a few months ago met with such success that the committee on religious education decided to conduct the present contest emphasizing attendance and the securing of new members.

The program of music at the evening service will consist of vocal solos by Mrs. O. C. Johnson and trombone solos by Howard Giles.

Rev. Edgar A. Valiant will speak on "A Legacy of God's Grace" at the morning service, and in the evening he will begin a series of sermons on "God's Library," speaking on "God's Library, Volume One."

Syttende Mai

In Brainerd the 17th of May is to be observed a day in advance because the real holiday this year comes on a Sunday.

In other sections of the state it will be observed on Sunday. To the many Norwegian-Americans who celebrate "The Seventeenth of May," the occasion is more than a national holiday, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Syttende Mai has become a symbol of the principle of popular sovereignty so highly valued by liberty-loving people everywhere.

The adoption of a liberal constitution by the Norwegian people at Eidsvold, Norway, May 17, 1814, marks a true independence day similar in significance to July 4 and the signing of the Declaration of the American Independence. It was an expression of the will of the Norwegian people and therefore a triumph for the ideals of liberty. Norway is one of the few constitutional monarchies in the world whose charter of rights is not a mere gift from a reluctant king or a concession of rights from the ruling classes. Instead it is a document which the people themselves created, a Norwegian Declaration of Independence and Magna Charta combined.

The political history of Norway since those momentous May days of 1814 which saw the birth of the Constitution of Eidsvold has demonstrated that the country has been determined to hold fast to the declaration of principles embodied therein, namely, that all power in government should emanate from the will of the sovereign people. This staunch adherence to an ideal has enabled the Norwegian people to weather any crisis endangering this fundamental idea in their constitution.

Norwegian-Americans keep alive their reverence for the hard won victory of liberty and the principles of popular sovereignty. Their observance of Syttende Mai is oftentimes a good thing for the state of democracy in America.

In the Matter of Battleships

FRANCE and Italy are reported to have agreed that battleships greater than 20,000 or 25,000 tons are impractical and extremely expensive, says the Detroit News. The British admiralty is said to side with this opinion, and to have agreed to argue in favor of it when the conference for further limitation of armaments meets next year. But our navy department, according to report, is greatly perturbed; it insists that 35,000-ton battleships are absolutely necessary for the defense of this country, and it fears the United States will be all alone in demanding their perpetuation before the conference.

The loneliness of the United States will not distress us, if the position of the United States is right. But will some kind and able admiral tell us, in simple language, why, if all other countries agree to limit themselves to battleships of 25,000 or 20,000 tons, America must have battleships of 35,000 tons? And why, if all other countries agree to limit themselves to 12-inch guns, the American battleships must have 16-inch guns?

True, we have the Panama canal to protect. But, Great Britain has the Suez canal. We have outlying possessions that cannot defend themselves. So have the British. Furthermore, we grow enough food to keep the whole country from starvation in time of war, as Great Britain does not. If the British admiralty believes the home shores and the far-flung empire can be protected by ships of 20,000 tons, why can't the United States? If you please, naval strategists, a few words on these points. And we should prefer to have them from the navy department rather than from the Navy league.

Title to Receding Lake Land

RECEDING lakes in Clay county have caused disputes as to who owns the property left high and dry by the diminishing waters. The points cleared are of interest to Crow Wing county lake shore owners.

Several inquiries having been received by H. A. Stalley, register of deeds of Clay county, from persons seeking information on the subject, he asked State Auditor Stafford King for an opinion.

The ruling of the state auditor is that persons who own lake shore property, also own that land which is left by receding water to the deepest part of the lake. This division is known as the "apple pie" method.

"The shore or riparian owner of land described by government surveys follow the water down as it recedes naturally without reference to section lines," the opinion states.

"The riparian owner holds title in fee absolute down to the ordinary water mark and follows the water to its lowest or disappearing point. Where the lake is regular, the division is referred to by lawyers as the 'apple pie' method of partition," the opinion said.

Can Minstrels Return?

For some months there have been rumors in theatrical circles of a revival of minstrelsy, says the Columbus Dispatch. Now comes the announcement that the name of Al G. Field will again be before the public and once more will be heard the rattle of the bones, the "Gentlemen, be seated" of the interlocutor and the drawing voices of the endmen.

The possibility of a comeback of minstrelsy is fascinating; but, alas, it is impossible to predict the glowing success that it deserves. There is no more hazardous business now than the theater.

However, a new generation has grown up since minstrelsy was a valued part of the theatrical scheme and it is possible that curiosity alone will draw the youngsters into the theaters. We hope so. Yet we are fearful that too many concessions will be made to modern taste and that the new minstrelsy, with an eye to the box office, will lose many of those features that endeared it to the hearts of those no longer young. We shall see.

Stocking Lakes With Fish

MINNESOTA put back more than 478,000,000 fish into its lakes in 1930 to give thousands of fishermen additional sport, William D. Stewart, state game and fish commissioner, said.

Thirteen state fish hatcheries, 150 dams and fish screens and two bass ponds are maintained by the state for the restocking work.

REPRESENTATIVES from all cities interested in the promotion of a Great Lakes waterway have been invited to attend a meeting to be held at Port Arthur, Ontario, May 28. It is planned to form an "On-to-the-Sea Association."

ROOSEVELT

Ed Coffield made a business trip to South St. Paul Monday night.

Louis Schellin and daughter Frances and her cousin, Edith, motored to Brainerd Wednesday.

Will McConnell of Platte Lake was a caller in Pine Center Thursday.

The wedding bells will soon be ringing in the neighborhood.

Joe Miller has moved on the old Hall place west of here.

Mervin Edwards and Stella Cornish called at Coffield's Friday.

Mrs. Bert Cooley and son Leslie were Brainerd callers one day last week.

Leslie is having some teeth extracted.

Mr. and Mrs. Claus Johnson motored to the Twin Cities just recently.

The farmers are busy getting their ground ready for planting. But due to the cold and backward spring nothing will grow.

Lyle Wunderlich called at Coffield's Friday night.

A group of young folks called at the Mangold home Friday night to practice songs for Mothers' Day.

A nice program was held at the Roosevelt school Sunday, it being Mothers' Day. John Heinmiller took the mothers to Brainerd to church services and a drive out by Gull lake, and a surprise supper was given by the daughters at the home of Mrs. Stallman. A very enjoyable time was had by all.

Rosabelle Cooley is visiting at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. McCormick of Northeast Brainerd, the past week.

Ed Snodgrass gave a dance Saturday night at Snodgrass hall.

Mrs. John Hoskins of Hillman visited at the home Mrs. H. Mangold one day last week.

Among those that motored to Brainerd Sunday afternoon were the Misses Lorna and Bernice Cooley, Ione and Verna Persson, Earl Coffield and Fred Heinmiller, Anna Mae Coffield.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wunderlich and family called at Coffield's Sunday evening.

SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1931

Syttende Mai

In Brainerd the 17th of May is to be observed a day in advance because the real holiday this year comes on a Sunday.

In other sections of the state it will be observed on Sunday. To the many Norwegian-Americans who celebrate "The Seventeenth of May," the occasion is more than a national holiday, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Syttende Mai has become a symbol of the principle of popular sovereignty so highly valued by liberty-loving people everywhere.

The adoption of a liberal constitution by the Norwegian people at Eidsvold, Norway, May 17, 1814, marks a true independence day similar in significance to July 4 and the signing of the Declaration of the American Independence. It was an expression of the will of the Norwegian people and therefore a triumph for the ideals of liberty. Norway is one of the few constitutional monarchies in the world whose charter of rights is not a mere gift from a reluctant king or a concession of rights from the ruling classes. Instead it is a document which the people themselves created, a Norwegian Declaration of Independence and Magna Charta combined.

The political history of Norway since those momentous May days of 1814 which saw the birth of the Constitution of Eidsvold has demonstrated that the country has been determined to hold fast to the declaration of principles embodied therein, namely, that all power in government should emanate from the will of the sovereign people. This staunch adherence to an ideal has enabled the Norwegian people to weather any crisis endangering this fundamental idea in their constitution.

Norwegian-Americans keep alive their reverence for the hard won victory of liberty and the principles of popular sovereignty. Their observance of Syttende Mai is oftentimes a good thing for the state of democracy in America.

In the Matter of Battleships

FRANCE and Italy are reported to have agreed that battleships greater than 20,000 or 25,000 tons are impractical and extremely expensive, says the Detroit News. The British admiralty is said to side with this opinion, and to have agreed to argue in favor of it when the conference for further limitation of armaments meets next year. But our navy department, according to report, is greatly perturbed; it insists that 35,000-ton battleships are absolutely necessary for the defense of this country, and it fears the United States will be all alone in demanding their perpetuation before the conference.

The loneliness of the United States will not distress us, if the position of the United States is right. But will some kind and able admiral tell us, in simple language, why, if all other countries agree to limit themselves to battleships of 25,000 or 20,000 tons, America must have battleships of 35,000 tons? And why, if all other countries agree to limit themselves to 12-inch guns, the American battleships must have 16-inch guns?

True, we have the Panama canal to protect. But, Great Britain has the Suez canal. We have outlying possessions that cannot defend themselves. So have the British. Furthermore, we grow enough food to keep the whole country from starvation in time of war, as Great Britain does not. If the British admiralty believes the home shores and the far-flung empire can be protected by ships of 20,000 tons, why can't the United States? If you please, naval strategists, a few words on these points. And we should prefer to have them from the navy department rather than from the Navy league.

Title to Receding Lake Land

RECEDING lakes in Clay county have caused disputes as to who owns the property left high and dry by the diminishing waters. The points cleared are of interest to Crow Wing county lake shore owners.

Several inquiries having been received by H. A. Stalley, registrar of deeds of Clay county, from persons seeking information on the subject, he asked State Auditor Stafford King for an opinion.

The ruling of the state auditor is that persons who own lake shore property, also own that land which is left by receding water to the deepest part of the lake. This division is known as the "apple pie" method.

"The shore or riparian owner of land described by government surveys follow the water down as it recedes naturally without reference to section lines," the opinion states.

"The riparian owner holds title in fee absolute down to the ordinary water mark and follows the water to its lowest or disappearing point. Where the lake is regular, the division is referred to by lawyers as the 'apple pie' method of partition," the opinion said.

Can Minstrels Return?

For some months there have been rumors in theatrical circles of a revival of minstrelsy, says the Columbus Dispatch. Now comes the announcement that the name of Al G. Field will again be before the public and once more will be heard the rattle of the bones, the "Gentlemen, be seated" of the interlocutor and the drawing voices of the endmen.

The possibility of a comeback of minstrelsy is fascinating; but, alas, it is impossible to predict the glowing success that it deserves. There is no more hazardous business now than the theater.

However, a new generation has grown up since minstrelsy was a valued part of the theatrical scheme and it is possible that curiosity alone will draw the youngsters into the theaters. We hope so. Yet we are fearful that too many concessions will be made to modern taste and that the new minstrelsy, with an eye to the box office, will lose many of those features that endeared it to the hearts of those no longer young. We shall see.

Stocking Lakes With Fish

MINNESOTA put back more than 478,000,000 fish into its lakes in 1930 to give thousands of fishermen additional sport, William D. Stewart, state game and fish commissioner, said.

Thirteen state fish hatcheries, 150 dams and fish screens and two bass ponds are maintained by the state for the restocking work.

REPRESENTATIVES from all cities interested in the promotion of a Great Lakes waterway have been invited to attend a meeting to be held at Port Arthur, Ontario, May 28. It is planned to form an "On-to-the-Sea Association."

ROOSEVELT

Ed Snodgrass made a big news trip to South St. Paul Monday night.

Louis Schellin and daughter Frances and her cousin, Edith, motored to Brainerd Wednesday.

Will McConnell of Platte Lake was a caller in Pine County Thursday.

The wedding bells will soon be ringing in the neighborhood.

Joe Miller has moved on the old Hall place west of here.

Mervin Edwards and Stella Cornish called at Coffield's Friday.

Mrs. Bert Cooley and son Leslie were Brainerd callers one day last week.

Leslie is having some teeth extracted.

Mr. and Mrs. Claus Johnson motored to the Twin Cities just recently.

The farmers are busy getting their ground ready for planting. But due to the cold and backward spring nothing will grow.

Lyle Wunderlich called at Coffield's Friday night.

A group of young folks called at the Mangold home Friday night to practice songs for Mothers' Day.

A nice program was held at the Roosevelt school Sunday, it being Mothers' Day. John Heinmiller took the mothers to Brainerd to church services and a drive out by Gull lake, and a surprise supper was given by the daughters at the home of Mrs. Stallman. A very enjoyable time was had by all.

Rosabelle Cooley is visiting at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. McCormick of Northeast Brainerd, the past week.

Ed Snodgrass gave a dance Saturday night at Snodgrass hall.

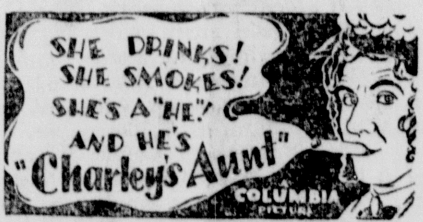

Mrs. John Hoskins of Hillman visited at the home Mrs. H. Mangold one day last week.

Among those that motored to Brainerd Sunday afternoon were the Misses Lorna and Bernice Cooley, Ione and Verna Persson, Earl Coffield and Fred Heinmiller, Anna Mae Coffield.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wunderlich and family called at Coffield's Sunday evening.

Archie Coffield worked a couple of days at Camp Lake last week.

Mildred Cooley called on Anna Mae Coffield one day last week.

EXPECT ONE OF GREATEST 'TWO-HORSE RACES' AT DERBY

IT'S VICTORY FOR TWENTY GRAND OR MATE, FORECAST

IF NOT, ONE OF BIGGEST UPSETS IN KENTUCKY DERBY IN STONE FOR MAJORITY OF THROG

FIELD OF 15 HORSES ANTICIPATED, SKY CLEAR, AND THE TRACK IS FAST

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Louisville, Ky., May 16.—(U.P.)—Equipoise, winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, went lame today and was withdrawn from this afternoon's race.

Equipoise's handlers discovered this morning that he had developed a quarter crack in his off fore foot. It was believed this infirmity had been bothering the colt for some time and would account for his having gone steadily backward in his form.

Withdrawal of the C. V. Whitney colt which earned $156,835 as a two-year-old, stunned the Derby crowd, as many had wagered heavily on him.

The withdrawal reduced the field to 14 horses.

"Equipoise went lame in his right front foot in the morning workout and we decided to withdraw him rather than run the risk of a permanent injury," Trainer Hopkins said.

Sonny Workman thus was left without a mount.

Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., May 16.—Don Leon, R. W. Collins' entry in the Kentucky Derby, was scratched shortly after 2 P. M. today. This left the field at 13.

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—(U.P.)—Another Derby Day found milling thousands gathered here for the fifty-seventh running of the Kentucky classic today eagerly looking forward to one of the greatest "two-horse races" in history.

Victory for Twenty Grand or Mate—that was the outlook for America's most picturesque horse race before a crowd expected to reach 60,000. If not, one of the biggest upsets in Kentucky Derby history was in store for a majority of the throng.

A field of 15 horses will start the derby, barring last-minute withdrawals. With scratch time passed at 7 A. M. today, none of the field of 15, entered yesterday, had been scratched.

A warm, bright day was assured. The sky was clear and the thermometer was near 70.

With Twenty Grand as the money horse, the Greentree Stable entry, which included Surf Board and Anchors Aweigh, ruled an 8-5 favorite, with indications that the odds might be hammered down even lower in the mutual betting.

Mate, conqueror of Twenty Grand in the Preakness at a mile and three-sixteenths a week ago, ruled a second choice at 5-2.

Fifteen horses were named overnight to go to the post, but the scratches were expected to reduce the field to twelve and possibly ten or eleven. At all events, it was certain to be the smallest Derby field since 1922, when only 10 went to the post in the race won by Morvich.

The doubtful starters were Up, Don Leon, The Mongol, Anchors Aweigh and Prince D'Amour.

Outside of the two favorites, the outstanding contenders were Equipoise, a question mark because of the uncertainty of his condition; Pittsburg, the west's chief hope; Ladd, which ran third to Mate and Twenty Grand in the Preakness; and Boys Howdy, favorite with the long shot players.

Those who believe in the law of averages think that an outsider will come thundering down the home stretch to capture the mile and a quarter grind. Zev, paying 19-1 in 1923, was the last long shot winner.

ERMA M. WEIR, PLAY SUPERVISOR, DIRECTOR OF MEET

GRADE SCHOOLS COMPETE IN GREGORY PARK ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

HARRISON BOYS AWARDED SILVER CUP; HARRISON GIRLS GAIN PENNANT

The grade school track and field meet in Gregory Park Friday afternoon, the culmination of play days at the various grade schools under the direction of Miss Erma M. Weir, play supervisor, was successfully conducted with four schools competing.

The Harrison school won the meet with the Lowell, Whittier and Lincoln following.

Total scores according to schools in the boys' meet were: Harrison, 85 1-3; Lowell, 64 1-3; Whittier, 58; Lincoln, 26 1-3.

Total scores according to schools in the girls' ranking were: Harrison, 88 1/2; Lowell, 58; Whittier, 56; Lincoln, 49 1/2.

The girls of the Harrison school have been awarded a pennant while a silver cup went to the boys of the same school for carrying off the meet.

Assisting Miss Weir in conducting the meet were Dammann, Melby, Squier, Taylor, and Miss Flueck of the high school teaching staff. Ten high school boys also aided.

The meet was divided into three divisions for boys and girls separately according to weight.

EXPECT ONE OF GREATEST 'TWO-HORSE RACES' AT DERBY

IT'S VICTORY FOR TWENTY GRAND OR MATE, FORECAST

IF NOT, ONE OF BIGGEST UPSETS
IN KENTUCKY DERBY IN STORE
FOR MAJORITY OF THROG

FIELD OF 15 HORSES ANTICIPATED, SKY CLEAR, AND THE TRACK IS FAST

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Louisville, Ky., May 16.—(U.P.)—Equipoise, winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, went lame today and was withdrawn from this afternoon's race.

Equipoise's handlers discovered this morning that he had developed a quarter crack in his off fore foot. It was believed this infirmity had been bothering the colt for some time and would account for his having gone steadily backward in his form.

Withdrawal of the C. V. Whitney colt which earned $156,835 as a two-year-old, stunned the Derby crowd, as many had wagered heavily on him.

The withdrawal reduced the field to 14 horses.

"Equipoise went lame in his right front foot in the morning workout and we decided to withdraw him rather than run the risk of a permanent injury," Trainer Hopkins said.

Sonny Workman thus was left without a mount.

Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., May 16.—Don Leon, R. W. Collins' entry in the Kentucky Derby, was scratched shortly after 2 P. M. today. This left the field at 13.

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—(U.P.)—Another Derby Day found millions of thousands gathered here for the fifty-seventh running of the Kentucky classic today eagerly looking forward to one of the greatest "two-horse races" in history.

Victory for Twenty Grand or Mate—that was the outlook for America's most picturesque horse race before a crowd expected to reach 60,000. If not, one of the biggest upsets in Kentucky Derby history was in store for a majority of the throng.

A field of 15 horses will start the derby, barring last-minute withdrawals. With scratch time passed at 7 A. M. today, none of the field of 15, entered yesterday, had been scratched.

A warm, bright day was assured. The sky was clear and the thermometer was near 70.

With Twenty Grand as the money horse, the Greentree Stable entry, which included Surf Board and Anchors Aweigh, ruled an 8-5 favorite, with indications that the odds might be hammered down even lower in the mutual betting.

Mate, conqueror of Twenty Grand in the Preakness at a mile and three-sixteenths a week ago, ruled a second choice at 5-2.

Fifteen horses were named overnight to go to the post, but the scratches were expected to reduce the field to twelve and possibly ten or eleven. At all events, it was certain to be the smallest Derby field since 1922, when only 10 went to the post in the race won by Morvich.

The doubtful starters were Up, Don Leon, The Mongol, Anchors Aweigh and Prince D'Amour.

Outside of the two favorites, the outstanding contenders were Equipoise, a question mark because of the uncertainty of his condition; Pittsburgher, the west's chief hope; Ladder, which ran third to Mate and Twenty Grand in the Preakness; and Boys Howdy, favorite with the long shot players.

Those who believe in the law of averages think that an outsider will come thundering down the home stretch to capture the mile and a quarter grind. Zev, paying 19-1 in 1923, was the last long shot winner.

Rowing's Dark Horses

By HARDIN BURNLEY

INTERCOLLEGIATE rowing, like all other races, has its dark horses which win quite unexpectedly every now and then. Usually entries tagged as such seldom come through so, when referring to Harvard and Wisconsin among 1931 ebon equines, this Sport Bug may be accused later of fixing a raceboat jinx on the Cantabrigians and the Badgers. However, both those varsity eights are liable to surprise critics this year—Harvard on the Thames against Yale, and Wisconsin at Poughkeepsie.

Not since 1927 has Harvard beaten Yale in their major eight-oared event on the Thames. In fact, in the past ten years that was the lone time Old John uttered Old Eli. Only two victories since the end of the war, and yet, in the 68 duels between the ancient rivals, Harvard has 31 triumphs to Yale's 37!

This year, the Blue now looms as distinctly superior to the Crimson, Coach Ed Leader apparently having another one of his great crews; but Harvard is not without hope. Up at Cambridge on the Charles River, Coach "Charley" Whiteside is not broadcasting, yet it is known that he is building a formidable varsity with much help from last year's excellent freshman boat.

Harvard men are yearning for a Thames victory over Yale, more so than for anything else in sports.

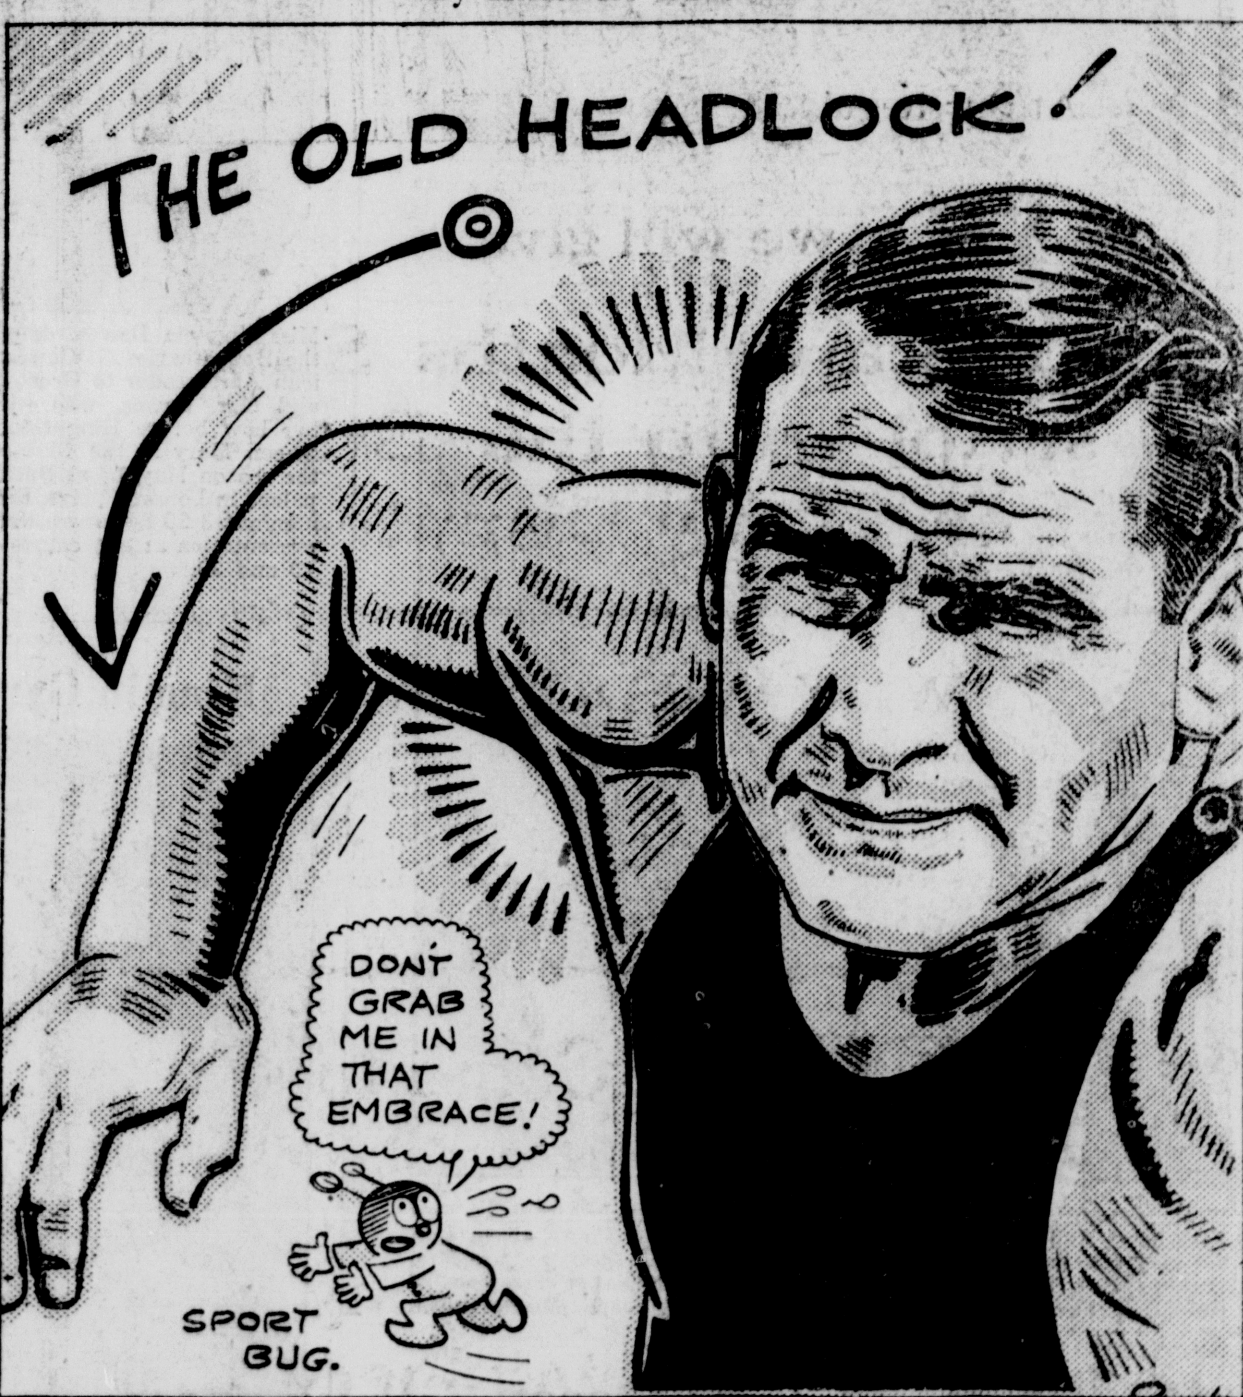

They would revive the glories of 1908-13 when for six successive Junes the Crimson waved above the Blue on the historic river near New London, Conn. But the best that can be said now is, their chances are dark—decidedly so.

As to Wisconsin, its varsity has been second, four times and third three in the Poughkeepsie Regatta since 1900. To finish among the first three in that Hudson River classic is distinction, but what the Badgers desire most is to capture a blue ribbon first. It seems almost impossible, but Coach "Mike" Murphy's first crew is working with that in view. Wisconsin's chances are about as good as those of Harvard against Yale.

Wrestling's "Old Master"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

ED "STRANGLER" LEWIS---

THE "OLD MASTER" OF WRESTLING, WHO RECENTLY WON BACK HIS CROWN---PROVING HIMSELF TO BE ONE OF THE GREATEST MATMEN OF ALL TIME!

© 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved

LONG under suspicion as the most hocus-pocus of all strenuous sports, wrestling has enjoyed a big boom in several cities since last fall. Most of the small towns always went for it in a fairly profitable sense. But now—with the heavyweight situation still in a fog almost three years after Gene Tunney's retirement—fans who like the sight and sound of canvas-thudding have taken to the grapple-grime-and-grunt specialists. Fans are doing so in such turstle-clicking numbers that—well, for one striking example, Ed "Strangler" Lewis decided to regain his championship lost to "Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg about three years ago. Last December

Sonnenberg was thrown for the title by Ed "Don" George, and so the latter faced Lewis in his first important defense of the crown a few weeks ago. The "Strangler" was in great form, pinning George twice in about an hour and a half of exciting action.

Now there is talk of matching Lewis with Jim Londos, world's champion of a rival group of promoters, to decide actual supremacy. Nothing may come of this because, so far as the rassin' business is concerned, the two main promotional groups might as well be living in two separate worlds.

However, as friends of the 42-year-old Lewis point out, the "Strangler" defeated Londos on several occasions in the past when "the Greek god" probably was not as good then as he is now. Londos has acquired a huge following and those old toasses by Lewis must rankle. A match between them would mean a tremendous gate this Summer—so tempting indeed that it might even make the embittered master minds of the business bury the hatchet for a time at least.

Meanwhile champions Lewis and Londos are drawing nicely in exhibitions over small city circuits. Most wrestling experts are confident that Lewis is the master event of the improved Londos. They believe the "Strangler" is a genuine "old master" who's still at his artistic best.

BILLY MILES lived away up in the backwoods country of Maine; he and his widowed mother. The farm was not particularly productive; but they managed to eke out a scanty living, enough for necessities, from their large timber holdings, selling cordwood and now and then white pine on the stump to a neighboring mill.

Billy was a lot the sort of youth that Lincoln must have been in character and mental bent. Physically he was almost as tall; filled out more symmetrically, and a much handsomer man in a rugged yet classic way. They had always lived too far from a school to make it practical for Billy to go, and besides, as a youngster, when his father was alive, there had always been too much work for him to do.

All Billy knew he had dug out for himself from books he sent away for with every dollar that could be spared. He was both a dreamer and a doer, and he meant to make something of himself or know he reason why. There were few days that passed during which Billy did not call to mind his father's last faint, frail words, as the boy bent over his bedside:

"Billy, you've nothing to worry about. Keep clean work and study hard and some day you may be pleasantly surprised."

And that is just what Billy had done. At twenty-one he was the equal, and in many practical ways the superior, in intelligence and knowledge that counts, of any inexperienced college man.

That summer there appeared on the horizon of Billy's life the supreme incentive. A little aristocrat; the product of high lineage, wealth and every advantage that culture provides. And, strange to relate, this girl with the fascinating eyes and smile had come through it all sweet and true, and with a proper sense of values. She was summering at her father's beautiful camp on Moosehorn lake; a few miles from Billy's farm.

There were a number of prominent people's camps surrounding the diminutive triangular beach of the lake; and Billy had secured the job of general utility man for the summer. During bathing hours he was life guard, at the little beach—the water was bitterly cold, and already he had dashed in for several who had got a sudden cramp. He made camp life possible for these people who were not insured to its rigors.

And in doing so, he and Virginia Valley became almost constant companions. His magnetic vitality, gentle charm, and self-taught culture stirred her more than she was willing to admit. As for Billy, he silently worshipped her; frankly facing, however, the undeniable fact that for him, a penniless backwoodsman, to aspire to the hand of a New York debutante was about the most ridiculous thing in the world.

But often there would flash in his mind the picture of Hercules, cleaning the Augean stables successfully. Nothing was impossible. His father's last words came back to him frequently these days: "work and study hard—keep clean—and some day you may be pleasantly surprised. So Billy never let the slender shaft of light that we call Hope flicker out within him.

Virginia and Billy played about; fished and a swim together all that summer until the day came for the departure of the Valley family. Billy sought out Mr. Valley, a notable New York lawyer.

"Mr. Valley, I've arranged for my mother to be in town for a year at least. I want to be a lawyer. Haven't you some sort of job in your firm I could have while I'm studying nights and all spare time?"

Rudolf Valley wasted no words. "I think I have, young man. I like your grit. Here's my card. Come in as soon as you get in town."

And that was Billy's big step up. Mr. Valley gave him a position which involved general research, while the boy studied to fit himself for a clerkship. Billy literally ate work. He was indomitable; for he had vowed he would be a member of the bar in five years.

That year Billy seldom saw Virginia, except when she stopped at his desk for a smiling "Hello, there" on her way out from her father's office. But her face was the shining torch toward which he strove. She it was he dreamed and worked for. As for Virginia, she lived her life of fashion; but always, instinctively she turned a deaf ear to the pleas of her blooded suitors—waiting—waiting.

Then the great day, the day Rudolf Valley called Billy into his private sanctum and said:

"I want you to read that clipping and sign this paper, Billy."

Billy fingered the tiny clipping. "Next of kin to William A. Miles please communicate Blanks; solicitors; London."

"Well, sir?" Billy's voiced puzzled. "You're his son. I saw this a month ago in the Times. Took it up, my boy—as a little surprise for you. Sign this," he extended a formidable document, "and you'll possess $2,000,000."

By the way, want you to come out to dinner with me tonight Virginia's been at me for a month to ask you. Billy stood limply, white and shak- en. He finally murmured: "So that's what father meant."

Chief Arrested

Police Chief Asa Cusick, of Evarts, Ky., above, is undergoing a unique experience for one who is usually on the outside looking in. For now Chief Cusick is behind the bars charged with murder in connection with the slaying of four men in the Harlan County mine disorders. Chief Cusick's assistant and another official also were arrested with him charged with participating in the fatal disturbances. They have denied the charges.

Slain Crusader

Raymond E. Gilyard (above), first selectman of Seymour, Conn., was shot and killed in the town building by a group of unidentified men who apparently had been lying in ambush for him. Gilyard had been crusading against liquor law violators. Police believe some boot-legging faction is responsible for the cold-blooded murder.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

PARIS AFTERNOON FROCK

Only a designer such as Lanvin would dare to add a pleated skirt to the hostess gown and achieve such a stunning result. The cowl drapery, flowing sleeves and graceful applied trimming black make the most of long slim lines and feminine curves. Double or triple georgette which, by the way, is very fashionable right now, has just the right degree of formality for frocks of this type, and pastels and soft blues and greens are rapidly replacing black. Formal afternoon gowns require formal slippers, preferably of lamé or crepe cut out and strapped in Grecian sandal manner.

Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5545. Sizes 14 to 42, 50 cents.

Effect of Frost on Trees

Trees do not explode in extreme cold but are subject to frost cracks. At times the extreme cold wood of the tree will contract; in other words, it will become frozen. If the sun comes out and shines brightly on one portion of the tree and the rest of the tree is unable to take up the expansion, the result is a crack. Sometimes this cracking makes itself heard. This noise is not comparable to an explosion.

What Interest Is

Interest is the universal time price linking impending and remote satisfactions, or efforts, or both. It is literally the previously missing link necessary for a complete comparison of efforts and satisfactions at all points of time.

DOROTHY SEBASTIAN & BERT LYTELL "BROTHERS" A COLUMBIA PICTURE

Showing at the Palace theatre Sunday and Monday.

Wins Fellowship in Rome

WARREN T. MOSMAN of Bridgeport, Conn., with his work of art which won for him the American Academy of Rome's Fellowship. With the Fellowship goes $1,600 a year for a term of three years and an allowance of $500 for transportation to and from Rome with residence and studio at the Academy.

South Seas Follies Beauty

Florenz Ziegfeld, well known for his "glorified" girls, has gone 'way to the South Seas to get his latest example of the feminine face and figure divine. Reri, shown on left, in her native dress, is contrasted sharply on the right, where the beautiful Polynesian enacts the role of an American miss to perfection. Reri was discovered on the Isle of Bora Bora by a movie producer seeking a star for his picture, "Tabu." The new addition to the Follies knows no English, but speaks French.

Preserving Rubber Tubing

Sooner or later rubber tubing loses its elasticity and "perishes." In the brittle state it cracks, and this is fatal in the case of rubber shutter releases, the tubing of aerograph outfits, and so on. The life of the rubber will be considerably prolonged if the tubes are occasionally immersed for an hour in a solution of one part of ammonia to two parts of water.

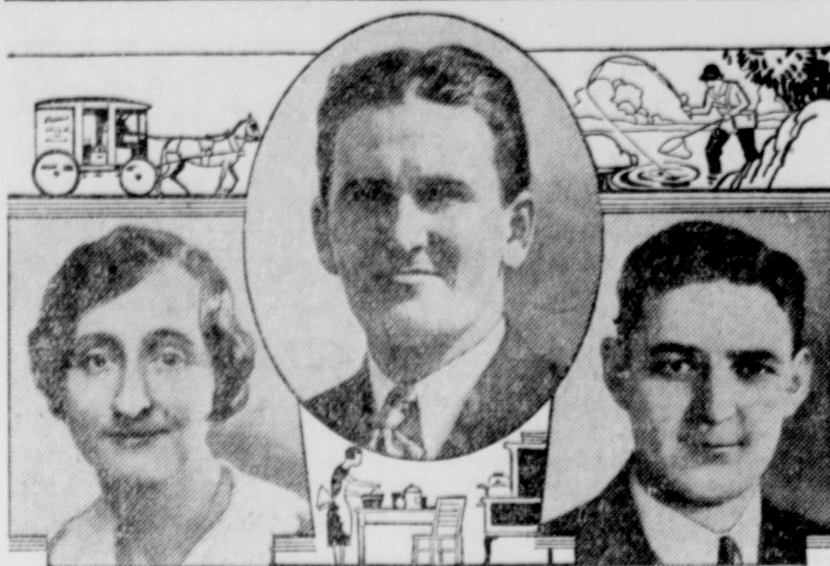

Making Home Happy

Sentiment isn't necessary to marital happiness. A well-regulated home can get along on a kiss in the morning, a smile in the evening and a newspaper between the partners at meals. Of course, in some homes they do nothing but kiss all day—in fact, some husbands start with the children and end up with the maid.—Collier's Weekly

During a concert at a Torquay (England) church recently, a collection was taken for the organist's salary, and the next number on the program was "It Is Enough."

Milkman, Housewife, Sportsman, Winners in $50,000 Contest

Top, James Thomas Sharkey, first prize winner; lower left, Mrs. Walter Sweet, winner of second prize; lower right, Julius M. Nolte, winner of third prize.

Pictures show the three major prize winners in the Camel cigarette contest. James Thomas Sharkey, 32, a milkman in Boston, was awarded first prize of $25,000; Mrs. Walter Sweet, mother of three children and wife of a Marine Corps captain stationed at the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Navy Yard, won second prize of $10,000, and Julius M. Nolte, real estate dealer, and former secretary of the Duluth Commercial Club, received the third prize of $5,000. In addition, five prizes of $1,000 each, five prizes of $500 each and twenty-five prizes of $100 each were awarded.

The three fortunate prize winners will go to Winston-Salem, N. C., where Camel cigarettes are manufactured, to receive their checks.

Oh! For the Life—

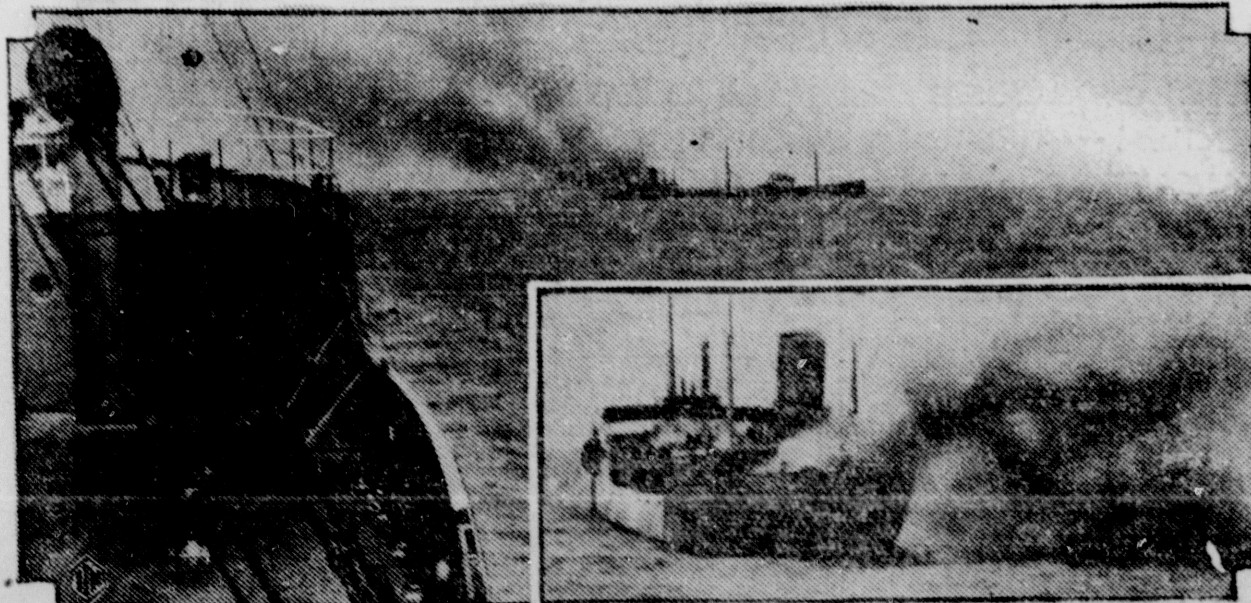

The Navy should receive a spurt in enlistments after this picture gets out. The life of a sailor can't be so dull, even afloat, for here is Ethel Merman, Broadway show star, entertaining the crew of the U. S. S. Salt Lake City in port at New York. The gobs evidently don't have to seek beauty and talent—it comes to them.

Woman Wins Hudson Classic

Rescue Cheats Death in Mid-Ocean

A startling view of the burning Swedish tanker "Castor" made from the decks of the S. S. Exporter, as it rushed to the aid of the stricken vessel with three other ships, is shown above. The tanker caught fire in midocean, but due to the courageous efforts of its radio operator, all of the crew of 41 men were saved by rescue ships. Insert shows a close-up of the burning vessel.

Heroism Rewarded

Awarded the bronze Medal and $1,600 in cash by the Carnegie Hero Fund, pretty Annetta Brennehan, of Factoryville, Pa., aged 19, takes her place in the roll of honor of civilian heroes honored by the institution. Miss Brennehan won her award when she risked her life in saving Frank P. Demeck from drowning. Although the girl weighs but 112 pounds and Demeck 175, she brought him ashore after he had stunned himself by knocking his head on the bottom of a canoe coming up from a dive.

To Bow at Court

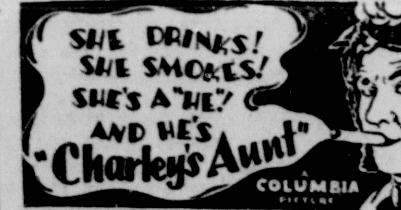

Miss Virginia Dawes, daughter of the Hon. Charles G. Dawes, American Ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Dawes, who will make her bow before King George and Queen Mary at the first court of the season May 19 at Buckingham palace in London. Mrs. Dawes has nominated 20 American women for presentation at two courts on May 19 and 20.

King in Gyro

An ardent aviation fan, King Albert of Belgium is shown seated in the cockpit of the new autogyro "windmill" plane in which he flew for the first time at the Ingelvert airport near Brussels. Albert is the first European ruler to venture on a flight in this type of plane. He is a qualified pilot.

FISHING SEASON ADDS NEW FIRES

Sudden Flareup Partially Blamed to Fishermen; Prosecutions May Follow Two Fires

ADDITIONAL CREWS ON

High Winds Sweep Northern Part of State Adding Additional Fire Perils

A sudden flareup of forest fires in the district, partly blamed to the opening of the fishing season, continued to be battled by Minnesota Forestry Department men today.

Fires existed in the following townships today, the forestry office here reported: Rabbit Lake, Crow Wing county; Maple, Moose Lake, Cass county; Villard, Todd county; Cushing, Darling, Morrison county.

Two fires set without permits and allowed to spread were extinguished near Cullen and Nisswa Lakes. Prosecutions may follow.

St. Paul, May 16.—(AP)—With the opening of the fishing season adding new forest fire dangers, the state forestry department put additional crews of patrolmen on duty today to guard against new outbreaks.

With high winds sweeping over the northern part of the state and unseasonable extremely warm weather prevailing, drying out brush, timber and grass, the forestry department prepared a plan of prevention rather than cure by increasing forest fire fighting forces.

Twenty-six new fires that broke out Friday increasing the danger of widespread outbreaks, were brought under control later in the day and during the night.

Twelve of them were burning in the Bemidji district, 12 in the Brainerd district, one north of Itasca Park and another in the Little Fork district.

No new fires were reported today, according to A. F. O'Connell, deputy commissioner, who said, however, that since many of the districts are inaccessible, there might be more new fires burning in districts unheard from.

Two of the fires that broke out Friday were caused by persons burning brush and meadow land without permits. The fires got out of control and state foresters were called in to extinguish them.

WOODROW

Saturday Brainerd shoppers were Mr. and Mrs. E. Bissom, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shuffelin, John Shuffelin, Theodore Bissom and Miss Madge Hoskins and Harve Hoskins.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Britton are living in Brainerd now.

H. A. Olson is ill again.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond King called at H. A. Olson's and at J. P. Dullum's Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson and Jr. were Sunday callers at J. P. Dullum's.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dullum called on John Nelson Sunday also at Martin Olson's.

Thad Cooley has enlarged his garden spot.

Ed Norgard is planting a large garden.

We often see queer spelling on rural home made signs. Here is a new one along our highway, "No Trust Passing, Keep Off."

School is soon out and the children are looking forward eagerly to a holiday.

T. L. Livingston was assessing property in Woodrow recently. He used to farm extensively but has cut down his acreage in order to attend to the work of assessing.

Clarence Norgard was a Woodrow caller.

Mrs. Geo. Colvin called at Wm. Britton's Sunday.

Lucille and Evelyn Dullum were home home over the week end from their new home in Riverton.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Simonson of Pine Shore in the loss of their new born boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sather are the proud parents of a new boy.

The 4-H club met at the town hall Friday night with a large attendance. They named their club the "Oak Lawn Boosters."

The big question is—why cream to be made into butter is about 12 1/2¢ a quart and cream for the other uses is up to 60¢ a quart. There is no scarcity of either.

Dullum's have sold some young pigs but have more to sell.

John Ellstrom, section foreman, expects to run an extra gang and Mrs. Ellstrom and children expect to move to White Bear.

The Henry Britton boys have another car.

Mrs. Dullum would like to hear from someone who has an old patch of overbearing strawberries to sell.

Mrs. Dullum is busy these days trying to keep her cattle from "Trust Passing."

CAR VICTIM RITES HELD AT CROSBY

Services Conducted Today for Wm. Stratemeyer, Killed Instantly When Car Overturns

Killed when the car he was riding in overturned in the ditch at Nichols near Garrison, his neck fractured, funeral rites for the victim, Wm. Stratemeyer, 40 year old Cuyuna resident, were conducted this afternoon at Crosby with interment at the Lake-wood cemetery.

A coroner's inquest Thursday at Aitkin established the verdict that Stratemeyer met death Wednesday night accidentally. In the probe it was revealed that the car had a flat tire and a substitute rim forced the car into the ditch.

Alvin Holzer of Garrison, the only other occupant of the vehicle, escaped with minor hurts. His cries attracted help and the car was immediately righted but it was shown that Stratemeyer had died instantly. Both were pinned underneath the overturned car. The car was en route to Garrison from Crosby.

Before living in Cuyuna, Mr. Stratemeyer operated a meat and grocery business in Ironton. Services were held from his brother's home, Charles Stratemeyer, at Crosby. The victim is survived by his widow and five children.

LYTELL SUCCESS TO BE SEEN AT PALACE

Romance, pathos, thrilling drama and a sensational dual characterization by talented Bert Lytell make "Brothers" the film adaptation of the successful stage play an entertaining picture. It will be shown at The Palace theatre Sunday and Monday.

The story is concerned with twin brothers separated in infancy and brought up in contrasting environments of two brothers as they grow to manhood is clearly depicted. Fate brings them together again with tragic results. The film is teeming with dramatic situations and interest.

The dual portrayal of Bert Lytell is dramatic. In an amazing manner he changes his manner, voice and personality so that it appears like two entirely different people.

Dorothy Sebastian gives a charming performance in the role of the heroine. William Morris, who appeared in the original stage version, repeats his creditable performance.

EPISCOPAL JUBILEE VERY ENJOYABLE

Given by St. Mary's Guild to Raise Money for Church Expenses

The Jubilee, held in the basement of St. Paul's Episcopal church last evening proved a very enjoyable affair. A good number were in attendance.

The Jubilee opened with a program at 8 o'clock, consisting of several popular numbers by Brainerd talent. Other attractions consisted of a curio room of which Mrs. R. L. Gustafson, Miss Irene Lowrey, Mrs. Henry Stein and Mrs. C. M. Brandon were in charge. This proved very interesting, there being objects on display from practically every country in the world including the Azores Islands.

Miss Marie Stein and Mrs. Wm. Dougherty were in charge of the fish pond, and many tried their luck at fishing. In the bean guessing contest, R. A. Kasper was the closest, and was presented with an angel food cake.

There was also a carnival section, with Miss Winifred Small in charge where caps, horns, conetti, candy, etc. were sold. Mrs. Richard Bush was in charge of the candy table.

A fortune telling booth where fortunes were told by the cards was presided over by Miss Clara Stein. This proved one of the most popular attractions. Mrs. Bob Anderson, Mrs. Geo. Erickson and Mrs. Wm. Irwin were in charge of the lunch counter.

The Jubilee was given by St. Mary's Guild of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, to raise money for church expenses, and a nice sum was realized. Mrs. Harry Paine had charge of the program.

FISHING SEASON ADDS NEW FIRES

Sudden Flareup Partially Blamed to Fishermen; Prosecutions May Follow Two Fires

ADDITIONAL CREWS ON

High Winds Sweep Northern Part of State Adding Additional Fire Perils

A sudden flareup of forest fires in the district, partly blamed to the opening of the fishing season, continued to be battled by Minnesota Forestry Department men today.

Fires existed in the following townships today, the forestry office here reported: Rabbit Lake, Crow Wing county; Maple, Moose Lake, Cass county; Villard, Todd county; Cushing, Darling, Morrison county.

Two fires set without permits and allowed to spread were extinguished near Cullen and Nisswa Lakes. Prosecutions may follow.

St. Paul, May 16.—(U.P.)—With the opening of the fishing season adding new forest fire dangers, the state forestry department put additional crews of patrolmen on duty today to guard against new outbreaks.

With high winds sweeping over the northern part of the state and unseasonable extremely warm weather prevailing, drying out brush, timber and grass, the forestry department prepared a plan of prevention rather than cure by increasing forest fire fighting forces.

Twenty-six new fires that broke out Friday increasing the danger of widespread outbreaks, were brought under control later in the day and during the night.

Twelve of them were burning in the Bemidji district, 12 in the Brainerd district, one north of Itasca Park and another in the Little Fork district.

No new fires were reported today, according to A. F. O'Connell, deputy commissioner, who said, however, that since many of the districts are inaccessible, there might be more new fires burning in districts unheard from.

Two of the fires that broke out Friday were caused by persons burning brush and meadow land without permits. The fires got out of control and state foresters were called in to extinguish them.

The big question is—why cream to be made into butter is about 12 1/2% a quart and cream for the other uses is up to 60% a quart. There is no scarcity of either.

Dullum's have sold some young pigs but have more to sell.

John Ellstrom, section foreman, expects to run an extra gang and Mrs. Ellstrom and children expect to move to White Bear.

The Henry Britton boys have another car.

Mrs. Dullum would like to hear from someone who has an old patch of overbearing strawberries to sell.

Mrs. Dullum is busy these days trying to keep her cattle from "Trust Passing."

ERICSON GARAGE, AUTOMOBILE BURN

Building Blazing When Fire Department Notified; Automobile Could Not be Saved

Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed the garage building and a Hudson coach, the property of Mrs. Lily Ericson, Brainerd Tribune editor, 504 North 4th street.

The blaze when first noticed at 3 a. m. covered practically the entire building.

The loss to car and building was placed at $1,000. Insurance in the amount of $800 is carried.

SUNNY LINKS GOLF COURSE OPENS TONIGHT

The Sunny Links miniature golf course, Sixth and Kingwood streets, will open for the summer season this evening with S. D. Lennox in charge. The course has been redecorated and the hazards will be changed from time to time.

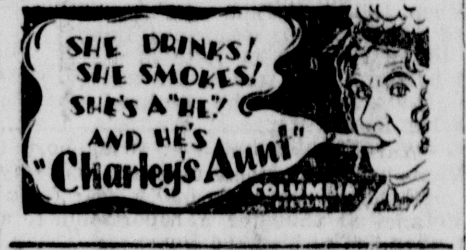

Don't forget the freshening cow feed lightly at first. Leave a little milk in udder at first milking. Massage the udder gently with warm grease, but do not bruise.

Dairy cattle values are closely associated with milk producing ability and type. Both of these characteristics are largely matters of inheritance. Good sires provide the cheapest and surest means of improvement.

Drinking cups are nearly as essential from a financial standpoint as are rangers or any other standard dairy fixtures.

Fresh, clean water should be before the calf at all times, day and night, as they require much liquid to carry out the functions of the body.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

"Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter and her fiancé, Walter Vance, assistant police chief, are baffled by the murder of Baroness von Wiese at Eagle's Nest and the theft of her jewels. The outstanding suspects are the butler, who denies receiving a note from the Baroness, her maid with whom she quarreled, and Mary Frost, whose shawl was wrapped around the body. Mary left the party with her husband, Ted, returning alone, later, for the shawl. According to the maid, Laura Allan had borrowed it. Laura claims she saw Mary enter the garden wearing the shawl. Bim feels that Mary is shielding Ted who flirted with the Baroness. A stone from a man's ring is found in the garden. Carl Carey, New York reporter, arrives at Kingcliffe. "Bim" is attracted to him. His implications regarding Laura Allan prompt "Bim" to investigate. She learns that Laura entertained Bunny Baird late at night. The imprints of the woman's shoes in the garden fit those of Emily Hardy, the hostess. "Bim" sees the butler dancing and wonders about him. Mary Frost confides that Ted left the party alone while she waited on the terrace and then returned for her shawl. As she left she saw Laura Allan wearing it. Bim believes the maid is withholding information about the Baroness.

CHAPTER XXIV.

BIM turned about laughing as Carey began to pull her along the street. "It's not breakfast at 11 o'clock, lazy head. Besides, I can't go; I'm a working girl doing my stuff."

"Feld it," he counseled her blithely. "We've got a lot of talking to do, you and I. You're going to hear some lovely scandal if you're a good child and come along peacefully."

Aroused Curiosity

"Scandal!" Bim echoed. "Who about, for goodness' sake?"

"About whom," Carey corrected her, making off toward the Maple Leaf Tea Room, "but the Baroness Von Wiese!"

Bim offered no further resistance to Carl Carey's invitation. She had no love for scandal generally, despite the fact that she had been reared in the small town atmosphere which is supposed to be synonymous with gossip; but anything which had to do with the murdered woman was quite different and she waited in a tense excitement while her host scanned the menu.

He ordered prodigiously—grapefruit and ham and eggs and toast and waffles and syrup and an extra large pot of coffee, and seemed really concerned when she would have only a sandwich and a glass of milk.

"But this is my lunch," she explained. "And how in the world you can wait till noon for breakfast!"

"By tearing off large and husky portions of sleep, my child. Kingcliffe's a great little old place for the simple life. Put my head out of the window at eleven o'clock last night and not a light burned. I dunno," he went on thoughtfully, "but what I kind of like it. I don't suppose," he suggested with his charming grin, "that the Banner needs a bright and enterprising young man reporter?"

"The idea!" Bim was genuinely shocked. "A star like you! I'll bet you couldn't be dragged away from New York."

"It's not so hot, baby." But he was pleased and flattered and Bim was surprised a little since she had not yet learned that few stars in any profession are above flattery. She mentioned the Baroness quickly, fearing that he would change his mind about sharing with her what he had designated scandal.

"But it's old stuff, Bim, my child. Mean to say there's been no dishing of that ancient and unsavory dirt around these parts?"

"If there has been I wasn't in on it. And I got around a lot."

"Your Mrs. Hardy, now—think she's—er—in the dark, too?"

"I suppose," Bim retorted crossly, "you mean 'dumb' instead of 'in the dark.' I'll have you know, Mr. Carl Carey, that because we're friendly souls here in Kingcliffe and don't go around snooping, as you put it, we're not so stupid. I'll have you know—"

False Colors

"Ah, now, sweet child! So cunning and so mad—" He grinned delightedly and, reaching across the table, gave her hand a pat. "Who says stupid? Not me, beautiful. I was only wondering—just a little angle of my own, you see—if the lady sailed up here under false colors. That's all, baby; and smile, please. There—now the sun shines again."

For Bim could not help laughing at his antics. "All right," she told him, "but don't do it again. I don't think the Baroness sailed under false colors, at least as far as Em Hardy is concerned. You see Em's sort of broad-minded about things. She wouldn't care much I guess if the Baroness did have a past. I suppose she had one?" Bim inquired hopefully.

"And how! She started out on Broadway, you know, not so many years back. Was one of the bathing beauties in the Frivolities, first anyone heard of her."

"Oh, no!"

"Oh, yes! Didn't think she was a society, did you?"

"Well, she was awfully snooty." "Had to be to cover up. Yep, a bathing beauty. Then she made a hit with a producer or somebody and got herself featured. After that her life was just one blizzard after another."

"Well, I never!" Bim commented in a shocked whisper.

"And affairs! She had the looks and she concentrated. Remember the Mantou suicide? Chester Mantou, English star he was and a nice chap, bumped himself off mysteriously over some girl. They hushed it up but she was the girl. Threw him over when an old fossil with a private mint began to make eyes at her. Married three or four times she was and then figured in a murder—one of those crimes that never was solved. That was hushed up, too, but everybody along Broadway knew what and who."

"By the time she got ready to move over to Europe she'd accumulated plenty dough and then she began to shop around for a title. Titles seem to be a weakness with women like Maggie Buggy."

"Maggie Buggy? What a name!"

"Isn't it? Not that most folks knew it; she became Margot Belle about the time she began to step high, wide and handsome."

"It seems to me," Bim mused, "that I remember that name."

"You probably remember," Carey said, "the front pages she grabbed when she married herself to the Baron. That was a story! There he was tottering on the brink, last of an old and terribly proud—and broke—family. And there she was only about half civilized but looking like Venus and Cleopatra and Helen of Troy, all rolled into one, clawing at his name. He didn't stand a chance—not that he deserved a chance, being over twenty-one and old enough to know better."

"He might have held off at that if it hadn't been for the story that got around about her wealth. Even so I suppose she was pretty well fixed compared with some of the best families of Vienna—or Paris, either. And the Von Wiese estate was on the rocks. Not that he managed to pull out with her money; she never let him touch a cent."

"But they must have had terrific expenses," Bim argued. "Em

Hardy met them in Palm Beach last winter."

"Oh, sure, she paid expenses. What was the use owning a Baron if she couldn't take him around and show him off?"

"It's a messy story," Bim decided.

"Right, baby. Especially when you consider the life she led the old man. Not," he added, "that the old man did much kicking. Or that it would have done him any good if he had."

"The point of all this," Carey went on, "is who out of the lady's past had reason to bob up here in Kingcliffe and plug her?"

"You think," asked Bim slowly, "that it was someone out of her past?"

"Don't you?" he enquired, eyeing the girl sharply.

"You wrote a list of all the dinner guests and called them suspects yesterday," she reminded him. "I just thought—well, did you change your mind?"

Carey disclaimed this. "Your Uncle Carl purely looks for new possibilities, my child. Now there's Rossiter Baird—"

A Slip Unnoticed

"Don't be silly," Bim broke in. "What in the world would Bunny Baird have against the woman?"

Besides there's his alibi if you insist on that; Laura Allen drove him home and he couldn't very well have come back and shot the Baroness and then got up the mountain before—"

She stopped suddenly, conscious all at once that she had no right to speak the remainder of the sentence, "before Terrence O'Toole saw him entertaining a woman in his bungalow."

Carey, however, appeared not to have noticed her hesitation. He shrugged and poured himself another cup of coffee and invited Bim to the movies.

But Bim felt a certain remorse for last night and her failure to get Mary Frost's story as she had promised Walter and accordingly refused. Whereupon Carey grinned more engagingly than ever and murmured: "I'll be seeing you, baby."

When Bim left him she wondered a little at his assurance and her liking for him in spite of it. And presently she was in the Station House where she realized, with her first glimpse of Walter's face, that something had happened.

What had happened, however, was merely that the Assistant Chief of Police had obtained a full report upon the past of the Baroness Von Wiese, nee Maggie Buggy, the details of which Bim already knew. Walter rifled the typewritten pages and regarded the thing with distaste, throwing it down finally with a gesture which said very plainly that he was mightily indignant.

"Not much of a person," he growled, in answer to Bim's puzzled look.

"Not much of a Baroness, sweet thing."

"What makes me sore," the tall, good-looking young policeman burst out, "is to think of your sitting at a table with such riff-raff."

Bim laughed at that as she always laughed when Walter played what she called his dominant role, yet there was something about it which pleased her in spite of herself. Walter was so in earnest and so in love. She answered him gently, a note of pride in her tone. "Don't be silly, my friend. The Baroness didn't hurt me."

He began to plead with her again to give up her part in the investigation. "It's not your kind of a racket, honey. You're too sweet for all this."

But she shook her head. "It's too exciting, Wally, dear. I'm having the grandest time. And clever—you've no idea. Listen to what I know that you don't."

Speedometer

Quail which hunters have always described as "shooting up like bullets," do not fly as fast as their startling whirl of wings would indicate, an investigator has discovered after trying days of racing the game birds in his automobile. Donald D. McLean, of the California fish and game department, has informed the American Game association that the greatest burst of speed he was able to time with his speedometer was 58 miles an hour. The average "cruising" time was around 40 miles an hour, he stated.

Happily Forgotten

One day Norman Hapgood met Mark Twain strolling along Fifth avenue, New York.

"How is Mrs. Clemens now?" asked Hapgood.

"Much better," he drawled. "In fact, the whole Clemens family has been so surprisingly well of late that I have begun to think that Providence has forgotten us."—Kansas City Times.

For Bim could not help laughing at his antics. "All right," she told him, "but don't do it again. I don't think the Baroness sailed under false colors, at least as far as Em Hardy is concerned. You see Em's sort of broad-minded about things. She wouldn't care much I guess if the Baroness did have a past. I suppose she had one?" Bim inquired hopefully.

"And how! She started out on Broadway, you know, not so many years back. Was one of the bathing beauties in the Frivolities, first anyone heard of her."

"Oh, no!"

"Oh, yes! Didn't think she was society, did you?"

"Well, she was awfully snooty." "Had to be to cover up. Yep, a bathing beauty. Then she made a hit with a producer or somebody and got herself featured. After that her life was just one blaze after another."

"Well, never," Bim commented in a shocked whisper.

"And affairs! She had the looks and she concentrated. Remember the Mantou suicide? Chester Mantou, English star he was and a nice chap, bumped himself off mysteriously over some girl. They hushed it up but she was the girl. Threw him over when an old fossil with a private mint began to make eyes at her. Married three or four times she was and then figured in a murder—one of those crimes that never was solved. That was hushed up, too, but everybody along Broadway knew what and who."

"By the time she got ready to move over to Europe she'd accumulated plenty dough and then she began to shop around for a title. Titles seem to be a weakness with women like Maggie Buggy."

"Maggie Buggy? What a name!" "Isn't it? Not that most folks knew it; she became Margot Belle about the time she began to step high, wide and handsome."

"It seems to me," Bim mused, "that I remember that name."

"You probably remember," Carey said, "the front pages she grabbed when she married herself to the Baron. That was a story! There he was tottering on the brink, last of an old and terribly proud and broke family. And there she was only about half civilized but looking like Venus and Cleopatra and Helen of Troy, all rolled into one, clawing at his name. He didn't stand a chance—not that he deserved a chance, being over twenty-one and old enough to know better."

"He might have held off at that if it hadn't been for the story that got around about her wealth. Even so I suppose she was pretty well fixed compared with some of the best families of Vienna—or Paris, either. And the Von Wiese estate was on the rocks. Not that he managed to pull out with her money; she never let him touch a cent."

"But they must have had terrific expenses," Bim argued. "Em

Hardy met them in Palm Beach last winter."

"Oh, sure, she paid expenses. What was the use owning a Baron if she couldn't take him around and show him off?"

"It's a messy story," Bim decided.

"Right, baby. Especially when you consider the life she led the old man. Not," he added, "that the old man did much kicking. Or that it would have done him any good if he had."

"The point of all this," Carey went on, "is who out of the lady's past had reason to bob up here in Kingcliffe and plug her?"

"You think," asked Bim slowly, "that it was someone out of her past?"

"Don't you?" he enquired, eyeing the girl sharply.

"You wrote a list of all the dinner guests and called them suspects yesterday," she reminded him. "I just thought—well, did you change your mind?"

Carey disclaimed this. "Your Uncle Carl purely looks for new possibilities, my child. Now there's Rossiter Baird—"

A Slip Unnoticed

"Don't be silly," Bim broke in. "What in the world would Bunny Baird have against the woman? Besides there's his alibi if you insist on that; Laura Allen drove him home and he couldn't very well have come back and shot the Baroness and then got up the mountain before."

She stopped suddenly, conscious all at once that she had no right to speak the remainder of the sentence, "before Terrence O'Toole saw him entertaining a woman in his bungalow."

Carey, however, appeared not to have noticed her hesitation. He shrugged and poured himself another cup of coffee and invited Bim to the movies.

But Bim felt a certain remorse for last night and her failure to get Mary Frost's story as she had promised Walter and accordingly refused. Whereupon Carey grinned more engagingly than ever and murmured: "I'll be seeing you, baby."

When Bim left him she wondered a little at his assurance and her liking for him in spite of it. And presently she was in the Station House where she realized, with her first glimpse of Walter's face, that something had happened.

What had happened, however, was merely that the Assistant Chief of Police had obtained a full report upon the past of the Baroness Von Wiese, nee Maggie Buggy, the details of which Bim already knew. Walter rifled the typewritten pages and regarded the thing with distaste, throwing it down finally with a gesture which said very plainly that he was mightily indignant.

"Not much of a person," he growled, in answer to Bim's puzzled look.

"Not much of a Baroness, sweet thing."

"What makes me sore," the tall, good-looking young policeman burst out, "is to think of your sitting at a table with such riff-raff."

Bim laughed at that as she always laughed when Walter played what she called his dominant male role, yet there was something about it which pleased her in spite of herself. "Walter was so in earnest and so in love. She answered him gently, a note of pride in her tone. "Don't be silly, boy friend. The Baroness didn't hurt me."

He began to plead with her again to give up her part in the investigation. "It's not your kind of a racket, honey. You're too sweet for all this."

But she shook her head. "It's too exciting, Wally, dear. I'm having the grandest time. And clever—you've no idea. Listen to what I know that you don't."

BRAINERD'S NEW BASEBALL ENTRY COMPRISES STARS

POWERFUL AGGREGATION TO BID IMMEDIATELY FOR FAME IN OPENING GAME

JOURNEY TO LITTLE FALLS FOR GALA OPENING THERE ON SUNDAY, MAY 24

Brainerd's most likely baseball prospects since the old days when big league scouts watched this town for future stars and created them, will make a bid for fame in its opening game Sunday, May 24, at 3 P. M., when they meet the powerful Little Falls aggregation at the Falls.

Manager Lester Peterson today announced his lineup as follows: Pitcher—Harold Anderson, formerly with Granite Falls and the property of the St. Louis Cards.

Catcher—Lienhart, St. Paul, of the Bohne Refrigerator Co. nine.

First base—Clark, Fargo.

Second base—Ledeau, St. Paul.

Short stop—Wold, Wadena, formerly of Bertha's championship club of '27, '28 and '29.

Third base—Yourish, St. Paul.

Center field—Nutting Brainerd.

Left field—Carl Peterson, formerly of Appleton and House of David teams.

Right field—Uddenberg, Brainerd.

Utility men—Jarboe, Richmond, Hanson, Loom and Ringer.

"Big Boy" MacDonald will do the mound duty for the Falls. Backing him will be Foreman, Cleve, Eli Enger, Wagner, Weidell, Mally Nydahl, Al Bernier of the former team and Tom Luckey, a new first base guardian.

Speedometer

Quail which hunters have always described as "shooting up like bullets," do not fly as fast as their startling whirl of wings would indicate, an investigator has discovered after trying days of racing the game birds in his automobile. Donald D. McLean, of the California fish and game department, has informed the American Game association that the greatest burst of speed he was able to time with his speedometer was 58 miles an hour. The average "cruising" time was around 40 miles an hour, he stated.

Happily Forgotten

One day Norman Hapgood met Mark Twain strolling along Fifth avenue, New York.

"How is Mrs. Clemens now?" asked Hapgood.

"Much better," he drawled. "In fact, the whole Clemens family has been so surprisingly well of late that I have begun to think that Providence has forgotten us."—Kansas City Times.

No Wonder It's Hard

One reason a foreigner has a hard time learning our language is because we ourselves ball it all up. We say we drink up a pint of milk when we drink it down. We also say we drink a glass full of soda when we drink it empty.—Florida Times-Union.

Big Units of Time

Time, by the anthropologist, as well as the geologist, is measured not by the hour, but in units of 25,000 years.
